Chapter 1 by Sam I am

As the bright moon rises to the midnight sky, Cyra lays her weary head on her pillow. Her green eyes close to the sound of soft music and summer wind. Her mind starts swirling with a colorful landscape full of the most beautiful things in the world. She is entering her Dreamland.

Chapter 2 by Raven Skymaven

She opens her eyes, and looked around. She is at the top of a mountain, standing in snow. She looks down. There is a huge, beautiful field and a great big lake. There are all kinds of animals all around. She looks down once more, closes her eyes and jumps.

She can feel the rush of wind as she falls down. Then, right before she hits the rocky ground, she spreads open her huge, feathered red wings and flies.

Chapter 3 by Dan_K

This is just one of the things that happened in Dreamworld.
It happens every day.

The flier. They ate thousands of calories of food and didn't add a pound. Fell off a cliff and survived without a scratch. They

The newspapers put out the headline: "THE NEWSPAPERS PUT OUT THE HEADLINE: 'THEY WENT TO DREAMWORLD,' the headline usually reads."

The first claim came 4 months ago. A Phineas Rumsford said he was in a dream like no other. It was like real life, more than any dream he had ever imagined. At first it came with little popularity. Just a weird dream, people said. But the next day, another citizen described the same thing. And the same thing the next. The name "Dreamworld" caught early on.

The Supreme Leader scoffs it off as fake. "These scumbags are just making up things to take down me!" he says. But conspiracy theorists say the World Order is involved.

More and more citizens are starting to believe Dreamworld is real, but many still think it is just an urban myth.

Until it happens to you.

Chapter 4 by Anjali Ragupathi

Nina Artemis sits under a cherry blossom tree in the school compound. The students had gone; the teachers fled home to the safety and comfort of their duvets and covers. But here she sits, her black hair long, winding and beating in the wind around her, as she waits for the dreams to take her away.

Slowly her eyelids begin to droop, her head sagging limply on her chest. She curls up into a fetal position against the bark and plunges into deep dark sleep.

At first, it's just black. Night. Raven. Obsidian. Onyx. And then...the stars come out and she stands in an icy field, surrounded by snow covered pines and the smell of fresh misty wind. She glances at her dress, the drab school pinafore replaced by a shimmery blue pantsuit. She can do anything here, she realizes. Everything she's ever wanted is now in the palm of her hand. And she will enjoy it.

Chapter 5 by -

Nina wandered through the Dreamworld, looking all around.

Waiting.

Watching.

Wondering.

Out of the corner of her eye she sees a person running through the Dreamworld, but this is unheard of. Another person in the Dreamworld? At the same time? Nina ran after the person until they stopped at the shimmering lake.

"Hey!" Nina called out and the person turned around. It was a girl with long blonde hair cradling her face and falling perfectly on her shoulders. The girl looked just as confused as Nina felt.

"Who are you?" Nina asked the girl.

"I'm Cyra, and I need some help!" The girl says.

"Well, I'm Nina. How did you get here?" Nina says.

The girl, Cyra, replies, "I don't know. I feel asleep, going into the Dreamworld, but I got out of mine somehow, and I don't know how to get back! Please help me!" Nina looks at the girl, nods her head and then disappears. She had been woken up by the principal of her school.

Chapter 6 by malteselover101

"Why Are You Still Here You Little Brat"? said The Principal

"I-I-I-I" Nina Mumbled

"I Have Better Things To Do Than Watch You Sleep"! The Principal Yelled

"I Dont Want To Hear Your Useless Explanation! Get Off The School Grounds This Instant"! The Principal Growled

"Bu-Bu-Bu" As Nina Was Still Flustered From The Dream

"No Buts About It! 2 days Detention! Do I Make Myself Clear?

Crystal" Nina Said

As Nina was Walking Home Staring At The Lifeless Grass She Was Thinking About What She Should say To Her Parents

"Umph!"

"Owl!"

"Watch Where Your Go!"

She Was Faced With A Boy; That Looked About 15, The Same Age As Nina. He Had Sky Blue Eyes, Short-Pixie Like Hair That Was As Black As The Night Sky. He Had The Hipster Glasses On, A Navy Blue Beanie, A Dark Blue Scarf, A Light Blue Flannel Shirt, Jeans, And A Pair Of Blue Converse High-Tops.

"Im Sorry I Didnt-"

"Its Fine. It Happens Alot". He Said In A Calm And Relaxed Voice.

"Whats Your Name"? He Asked

' Im Nina. How About You"? She Asked

Chapter 7 by Cody Neubeck

"I'm Tyler," He replied as he held out a hand.

Nina and Tyler shook and Nina got a great idea.

"Would you happen to know any thing about getting out of trouble?" she asked.

"My friends say I'm the best. If you don't mind, may I ask what you did?"

" I fell asleep and got detention for two days." Nina admitted.

"Did you do anything good that they haven't heard yet?" he asked.

"Does Dreamworld count?"

"I'd reckon so. You start with Dreamworld and end with detention."he said. "it's not going to stop punishment but it'll help a lot."

"Thank you!"cried Nina as he walked away. As she continued on her way she realized Tyler would make a good friend.

Chapter 8 by Lizabeth Sche

"Wait. " I didn't know what to say next, to Tyler. All I knew was, I wanted him with me. It didn't even matter. He did all the talking. I preferred it this way. I mostly got nervous when I had to speak. We were almost to my house, and Tyler graciously inserted himself into my situation. I would be forever grateful. We would be arriving before my parents received any report, so we used this to our full advantage. We came up with some reason to be together on a school night, checked in with my 'Rents', and went out to find some fun.
